OPPORTUNITY DESCRIPTION

The Teleflora Office Campus presents a rare opportunity to acquire a multi-building property centrally located in Oklahoma City. Situated on approximately 5.35 acres, the campus includes two three-story reinforced concrete office buildings totaling 61,118 square feet, a 10,000 square foot industrial building, and an additional 1.62-acre land parcel offering future expansion or redevelopment potential.

The office buildings, constructed in 1982 and 1999, feature efficient floor plates with a mix of open concept layouts and private offices, 12-foot slab-to-slab clearance, and secure, controlled access. The industrial facility provides warehouse space with 16-foot ceiling clearance and supplemental office buildout, allowing for a wide range of potential end uses. The industrial building is currently leased providing immediate passive income. Ample surface parking supports all three structures, and site topography and drainage are well-suited for continued intensive use.

Located with immediate access to NW 39th Expressway and I-44, the campus sits in the heart of Oklahoma City with excellent regional connectivity. The property also benefits from its proximity to one of the city's most cherished amenities—Will Rogers Gardens—as well as nearby Grand Portland Park. Together, these recreational and cultural landmarks add unique appeal for both employees and visitors.

This offering is ideally suited for an owner-user seeking a highly functional, centralized headquarters campus, or an investor/developer pursuing repositioning and redevelopment opportunities within the Oklahoma City market. With flexible zoning across the buildings, a balance of office and industrial space, and a sizeable land component, the Teleflora Campus provides multiple pathways for creating long-term value.

VALUE PROPOSITION: ACQUISITION VS. NEW CONSTRUCTION

The Teleflora Campus delivers substantial cost advantages compared to ground-up development in today's inflationary construction environment. Recent Bureau of Labor Statistics data shows the Producer Price Index for new office building construction has increased 90% since 2014, while construction materials costs have risen 64% over the same period. These macro trends have made new construction prohibitively expensive for many businesses. This campus offers immediate occupancy at a basis well below current replacement costs.

Cost Comparison Advantages:

- No 18-24 month construction timeline
- No exposure to material cost escalation risk
- No architectural or engineering fees
- Existing infrastructure and utilities in place
- Established parking and site improvements complete

The campus infrastructure includes systems and amenities that would require significant capital investment to replicate: reinforced concrete structure with steel column framing, gas-fired boiler with roof-mounted packaged HVAC units, comprehensive fire and life safety systems, 277/480-volt electrical service rated 800-2,500 amps, low-slope modified bituminous asphalt roofing, and cast-in-place reinforced concrete foundations with slab-on-grade floors.

Location within a mile of I-44 and the 39th Expressway provides immediate access to a built-out commercial ecosystem, unlike new construction in developing submarkets where surrounding amenities remain years away. The campus benefits from proximity to over 1,200 hotel rooms for visiting clients or employees, dozens of restaurant options, and advanced medical facilities throughout the broader central Oklahoma City corridor.

The multiple-building configuration offers operational flexibility unavailable in single-building purchases. Ownership can phase occupancy as business needs evolve or consolidate operations into the most efficient building while marketing excess space. The industrial component creates opportunities for businesses requiring warehouse, distribution, or light manufacturing capabilities alongside administrative office space.

LOCATION DESCRIPTION

Central Oklahoma City maintains a strategic position within the broader metropolitan office market. While the Oklahoma City office market faces vacancy challenges common to post-pandemic markets nationwide, central locations benefit from established infrastructure, mature landscaping, competitive parking availability, and diversified access to multiple submarkets.

CoStar market data shows comparable Oklahoma City office asking rents ranging from $13.00 to $23.98 per square foot full service, with larger floor plates in the $15-$19 range. Comparable industrial space in the area commands $7.25 to $10.50 per square foot NNN. These fundamentals support the existing lease structures at the Teleflora Campus while providing benchmarks for future leasing activity.

The campus competes with a broad spectrum of Oklahoma City office product while offering distinctive characteristics: its multiple-building configuration, exceptional parking ratio 5+ spaces per 1,000 SF versus market standard of 4.0), amenity package including fitness center and training facilities, and mix of office and industrial space create differentiation opportunities for owner-users or investors seeking unique property characteristics.

TRANSPORTATION ACCESS

The Teleflora Campus occupies a strategic position in central Oklahoma City with direct access to the city's primary transportation corridors. Located immediately adjacent to NW 39th Expressway (US Route 66) and Interstate 44, the property provides unparalleled connectivity throughout the Oklahoma City metropolitan area.

Interstate 44 runs diagonally through Oklahoma City, connecting to I-35, I-40, and I-235, providing freight and commuter access to all major employment centers. The 39th Expressway serves as a major east-west arterial, facilitating rapid movement across the metropolitan area.

Downtown Oklahoma City sits approximately 8 miles southeast via I-44 and I-40, representing a 15 minute commute during non-peak hours. Will Rogers World Airport lies 10 miles southwest, while Wiley Post Airport—serving general aviation and corporate flight departments—is located just 5 miles west. This dual-airport proximity serves businesses requiring frequent air travel or cargo handling.

IMMEDIATE AREA AMENITIES

The campus benefits from proximity to some of Oklahoma City's most distinctive cultural and recreational assets. Will Rogers Gardens, a 30-acre botanical garden operated by Oklahoma City Parks & Recreation, sits less than one mile south of the property. The facility includes formal gardens, walking trails, event spaces, and serves as one of the city's premier horticultural showcases. Grand Portland Park, located immediately east of the property, offers walking paths and green space for employee recreation and outdoor breaks. The park provides immediate access to outdoor amenities rare for urban office campuses. Lake Hefner, a 2,500-acre reservoir three miles west, provides 9 miles of paved trails popular with runners, cyclists, and walkers. The lake area includes restaurants, golf courses, and water recreation, creating lifestyle amenities that support employee recruitment and retention.

The three-mile radius around NW 36th and Portland Avenue is home to roughly 110,000 residents whose median age is about 35, and the area supports a median household income near $50,000—figures that reflect a balanced mix of young families, professionals, and longer-term residents. Educational attainment is solid: approximately 30 percent hold bachelor’s degrees or higher, meaning the local labor pool is well equipped for knowledge-based roles in technology, healthcare, professional services, and administrative operations. Because the area blends working and middle class with a fair share of white-collar talent, your tenants/business can tap into both discretionary consumer demand and a capable workforce. The demographic base also helps stabilize consumption across multiple tiers from premium goods, value goods, casual dining, franchises, and service businesses. In short: this is a market with both depth via established residents and dynamic work-force of younger professionals, giving your development or enterprise strong local support for retail, office, hospitality, and mixed-use activation.
